Not just a goat for Christmas

Polling by the Australia Institute shows nearly half of Australian adults (48%) would rather people didn't buy them Christmas presents. Yet the celebration of Christ being born among us brings such joy and gratitude we can't help wanting to give generously at Christmas.

So you buy someone you love an Everything in Common goat card. But it's not just a goat.

For $50, a family in India receives a goat, and from it; milk to drink, manure for the garden, and training to grow their flock and business. That means better nutrition and income for food, medicine and schooling.

Each gift from the Everything in Common Gift Catalogue is wrapped in a whole project: training, ongoing support and community-wide change, led by local church partners who are still there long after the gift arrives.

This short video shows you the impact of a goat on one family.

Holding all things in common

“All the believers were together and had everything in common. They sold property and possessions to give to anyone who had need.” (Acts 2:44–45)

This Advent, inspire generosity by shopping at our Everything in Common gift stall or visit everythingincommon.com.au.

In recent years, thanks to Uniting Churches across Australia, families in Asia, Africa and the Pacific gained better access to food, clean water, kitchen gardens, small business support, and hope in the face of poverty and a changing climate. Thanks for your support. Let's do it again!

A UnitingWorld story

This is Siti, a young mum in a remote village in Indonesia. UnitingWorld and our partner church in the region have been working to help people like Siti battle the impacts of climate change in her community.

Seedlings helped her plant her family's first vegetable garden. When a high-risk pregnancy came, a gift of laying hens gave her the nutrition she needed for a safe delivery. This year, Siti is on the cover of the Everything in Common catalogue. Support Siti and many more by buying Everything in Common cards at our stall or online at everythingincommon.com.au.
